LOYAL BRIDE SEEKS PARDON FOR ARMY MAN

Wife of Captain Serving Time for Misappropriation Here to Ask Clemency.

By COLE C. MORGAN, Universal Service.

For better or for worse—and now that the worse has come, pretty Mrs. Mildred Ferris, young wife of former Capt. Robert Ferris, U. S. A., is here in Washington fighting with all her might for executive clemency that will restore him to her.

Ferris, just a week ago, began serving a court-martial sentence of a year in the military prison at Leavenworth for a shortage of $900 in his accounts as an officer of the Fifty-third infantry at Camp Green, Ill.

"I am going to stay in Washington and fight until he is freed," Mrs. Ferris said today. "I want Robert back and I am going to do everything I can. There is only one thing that can be done for him and that is a pardon."

"If he doesn't get it, I shall stay in Washington and wait for him to finish his sentence, so that when he does get out he will have a home to come to. But I have not given up hope he will be pardoned."

The morning mail had brought the young wife a parcel post package from Leavenworth, containing her husband's watch and other personal belongings that prisoners are not permitted to take with them into the grates walls. She's just a slip of a girl, scarcely more than a hundred pounds, a striking Spanish type of brunette beauty, born and reared in the South. She described her husband as a striking contrast to her frail self, a robust six-footer of Celtic stock.

The court-martial of Ferris came when army auditors a few months ago discovered the discrepancies in his accounts.

After his sentence the wife decided to come to Washington and make the fight for clemency.

Ferris is not a product of the world war. He enlisted in the army ten years ago as a buck private when just a youth of eighteen.

When the world war came on Ferris, like a good many others of the old enlisted personnel, tried for a commission and won it. It was while he was on the Mexican border that the romance started.

A year later, after Ferris had won his lieutenantcy and was stationed at Oglethorpe, the girl slipped away from her home in Knoxville, met him in Chattanooga and they were married. When he started overseas she went on to New York to bid him good-by and then returned to her home in Knoxville to await his return. When he came back she rejoined him and they went on to his post at Camp Grant.

Up to then it had all been "for better," and then last spring came the tragic "worse."

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

AGAINST MOONSHINERS

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—A man and a woman were arrested on a charge of manslaughter yesterday and held in the Sussex county jail at Sayton, N. J., without bail because bootleg booze they are alleged to have made and sold caused a drinker's death.

They are Mrs. Katie Stearns and George Bogash. In underbrush near the house they occupied in what is known as the wildest section of Franklin, Chief of Police Herbert C. Irons, of Newton, found a complete still.

The alleged victim, Jerry Kerry, twenty-five, a laborer, died in the Franklin Hospital. He had been unconscious since Sunday evening, when motorists picked him up alongside the road near the Stearns home. Dr. J. G. Coleman, former coroner, and other physicians declared he died of alcoholic poisoning.

SUFFERING'S PROSPECT FOR COMING WINTER

Donal D. Conn Sees Intolerable Hardships Due to Certain Coal Shortage.

By International News Service.

A winter of suffering that, in prospect, can be compared only with the experiences of Soviet Russia stares in the faces of 9,000,000 people in six Northwestern States as cold weather approaches. Coal bins are empty in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, North and South Dakota, and Montana, and supplies so far shipped are pitifully inadequate.

This was the declaration today of Donal D. Conn, chairman of the committee representing the governors of these States, who is in Washington working to get fuel started for ports on the Great Lakes in time to be transported by water to the great docks at the head of Lake Superior for distribution.

"I cannot put it too strongly," said Conn today. "People in this winter if coal isn't moved at once in large quantities."

"If disaster is to be avoided," he added, "a million tons of coal must be dumped each week at Lake ports before the close of lake navigation, about December 1. The only hope for the Northwest is for the Interstate Commerce Commission to force coal into lake ports regardless of everything but railroads and public utilities."

Last year, according to Conn, 11,913,714 tons of bituminous coal, 1,943,783 tons of anthracite were shipped to Lake Superior ports for distribution to the Northwest States. Up to August 21 of this year 1,913,554 tons of bituminous and about 10,000 tons of anthracite had been shipped. And much of this coal, Conn declared, has been diverted to uses that if not for the rail strike, would have been met by all-rail coal from Illinois.

"The situation is desperate," said Conn. "There is no reserve whatever. On August 29, 1921, there were 5,400,000 tons of coal in the docks at Duluth, Minn., and Superior, Wis. Day before yesterday there were just 177,000 tons."

"And remember that winter comes early in that country. We have killing frosts September 15. When I was in Duluth two weeks ago it was so chilly that steam heat was on in the hotel and railroad station."
